34 inches in height. The young of the year, however, have the same shape as the adult, but they are seen in the spring when we arrived in June.

4th. At 11 o'clock, Sunday, the 1st of June, we left the boat and went on foot to the summit of the mountain. The ascent was very steep and we had to climb for about two hours to reach the summit. The view from the summit was very fine and we saw the whole of the island. The weather was very fine and the sea was calm. We had a very good dinner at the summit and then we came down. The descent was very steep and we had to climb for about two hours to reach the bottom. The view from the bottom was very fine and we saw the whole of the island. The weather was very fine and the sea was calm. We had a very good dinner at the bottom and then we came back to the boat.

5th. At 11 o'clock, Monday, the 2nd of June, we left the boat and went on foot to the summit of the mountain. The ascent was very steep and we had to climb for about two hours to reach the summit. The moss Andreaea alpina, (Hedw. var. f. s. Thomsen) found on dripping granite rocks on top of the cornice or slabs of rock, say about 2,200 feet.

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold air.
 It felt like a giant hand
 reaching out to grab me.
 I shivered and pulled my coat tighter around me.
 The street was empty,
 the only sound being the
 distant hum of traffic.
 I looked up at the sky,
 which was a pale, overcast
 grey.

I walked for a while,
 trying to get my bearings.
 The buildings were old,
 their facades showing signs
 of age and neglect.
 I saw a few people
 walking in the distance,
 but they seemed so far away. I felt like I was in a dream, or perhaps a very strange one.
 The air smelled strange,
 like a mix of old stone and something I couldn't identify.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page shows the binding, with visible stitching or staples. There is no text or other markings on the page.
